

Manage Tomorrow's Surprises Today

LogicManager Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) Software

Anticipate what's ahead.
Protect your reputation.
Improve business performance.

Expectations from all angles call for more business value and actionable results from risk management.

Through a common risk framework, LogicManager's ERM solution provides the tools you need to collect and share risk intelligence, uncover root causes, and re-aggregate information through the various levels and lenses of your risk universe. Our powerful platform connects individual risks to common organizational risk categories, including performance management, through the board of directors' strategic concerns.

Flexible Solution

Control engagement through an end-user configuration without IT involvement. This approach enables faster time-to-value and allows you to evolve your programs over time, not to mention a quicker return on investment.

Advisory Analyst Support

You will be assigned a dedicated Advisory Analyst partner who, in conjunction with our Advisory Team, will be your Sherpa—guiding you through the evolving Risk Landscape.

Risk-Based Approach

Our software guides you through a risk-based approach: identify, assess, mitigate, monitor, and report. This enables prioritization across organizational silos, identifies challenges and critical dependencies, and proper resource allocation.

“What we needed was some hand-holding with regards to what to look for in the system and how the taxonomy of the different areas speak to each other so we could maximize the benefits of it. LogicManager has definitely provided that, as well as the expertise that the analysts have with regards to ERM, and we’ve been able to learn a lot.”
– Jean Outland-Rhodes, ERM System Administrator Management, Rutgers University
